ENUMERATOR INSTRUCTIONS:

For this survey, we use the following definitions of a household, household member, household head, and primary male respondent:

- Household: a group of people who live and eat together, share resources and form a common decision-making unit. Often, a household is composed of a head of household, spouse(s), their unmarried children, and possibly their relatives or other persons to whom they are unrelated. The household can be limited to only one person or a person with his or her children. In a polygamous household where all the spouses do not live in the same compound as their husband, each of the spouses living elsewhere will be listed as a separate household with the persons they live with (the spouse being the head of that household). A tenant who does not take his meals where he lives is considered as a separate household. In a case where a household head lives in a compound with a spouse or spouse(s) and their children, among which some are married, each of the married children with their spouse(s) and own children and other unmarried dependents under their responsibility are all part of the same single household. In this case, all three generations (and other unmarried dependents) belong to one household. In a group of unmarried people living together where everyone has his own means of livelihood, each member of the group will form his own household.
- Household member: anyone who met the criteria for being part of the household more than six of the last twelve months, as well as anyone who recently entered the household through birth or marriage to a household member.
- Household head: the individual who plays a leading role in household decision-making, particularly concerning farming, household economic activity and expenditures. Generally, the person identified by the household as the household head is accepted in this role for the survey.
- Primary male respondent: The primary male respondent for this study will be the spouse or partner of the midline primary female. If the mother of the baseline index child is not a member of the household, the primary male respondent will be the spouse or partner of the primary female caregiver of the baseline index child. If the mother or primary female caregiver of the baseline index child does not have a spouse or partner who is a member of the household, the primary male respondent will be an adult male household member who plays a leading role in household decision-making, particularly concerning farming, household economic activity and expenditures.

Your household already participated in an interview for this study sometime between Hamle 2011 and Tikmit 2012. We are calling now with a brief follow-up phone survey.]

Your participation in this research is completely voluntary. We will use approximately 20 minutes of your time. This call will not cost you any airtime. After this call, we will transfer phone credit worth ETB 100 to thank you for your time. You are free to stop the interview at any time or to refuse to answer any question. There will be no risk because of your participation in the study.

This study is conducted anonymously. You will only be identified through code numbers. Your identity will not be stored with other information we collect about you. Any information we obtain from you during the research will be kept strictly confidential. Your information, anonymized, along with everyone else's data who participates in this survey, will be used in the final reports of our findings. We may contact you again for a short phone interview or for an in-person interview like the one we conducted in 2019.

Do not hesitate to ask me questions about the objectives of the study or your participation. If you have questions about the research after this interview, you may contact Laterite's data team lead Fitsum Dagmawi on 0980635571. Module Z, Part 1A: Public Service Announcement about COVID-19

Enumerator, read out loud: “Before I end our call, I would like to say a few things to you about the Coronavirus health situation. Coronavirus is a virus spread when an infected person coughs or sneezes tiny drops of liquid into the air that another person breathes in. Even when talking, a person can produce these tiny drops of liquid that can infect another person nearby. Coronavirus is also spread when an infected person talks, coughs or sneezes and those droplets land on an object that someone else later touches and then touches their own face. It is possible for someone to spread the virus before they even know that they are infected. Washing your hands for 20 seconds with soap and water frequently, covering your cough or sneeze with a tissue, throw the tissue away, and then wash your hands, avoiding touching your eyes, nose, and mouth, cleaning and disinfecting frequently touched objects or surfaces such as doors, avoiding close contact with people that are sick, staying home if you are sick and maintaining physical distance of at least 2 adult steps from others when outside your household can help protect you from Coronavirus infection.
